Terms. The buyer takes the car on the date of sale and keeps it insured and in good repair until the balance is paid. The seller holds the title (or is listed as lienholder where the state allows) and signs it over within 10 days of the final payment. If a payment is more than the default period late, the seller may demand the full balance and, after written notice, take back the car as state law permits. The car is sold AS IS, with no warranty. Early payoff is allowed with no penalty.
